It is hoped, however, that when this becomes known the business-men will become alive to the importance of the occasion and all cooperate in giving a welcome to our North Carolina visitors worthy of Richmond and Old Virginia.

Mr. L. B. Tatum, superintendent of the Virginia Steamboat Company, has very generously tendered the free use of the steamer Ariel, which very materially assists in carrying out the arrangements.

HILLSIDE PARK.-Mr. J. W. McCarrick, agent of the Philadelphia steamers here. and a small number of friends invited by him, yesterday made a trip on the tug-boat Simpson to Hillside Park, or Drewry's Bluff, as it will and should ever be called. They found that a neat landing had been made, and considerable attention been given in the way of improving the grounds. The old headquarters building is still standing, and will afford shelter for a large company in case of rain. There is plenty of shade, and still, despite what has been done, a superabundance of undergrowth. The latter in this, he returned to Mr. Henley's chamwill be cleared away as soon as possible. CRIME IN GOOCHLAND.

Daring Attempt to Murder a Merchant and an Aged Lady.

HOW TWO NEGRO TRAMPS ATTEMPTED TO MURDER A YOUNG MAN IN GOOCHLAND COUNTY AND HIS AGED MOTHER-IN-LAW-THE COOL IMPUDENCE OF A ROBBER RE-WARDED-INDIGNATION OF THE CITI-ZENS-FULL DETAILS OF THE OUTRAGE-CONDITION OF THE WOUNDED, &c., &c.

Information was received in this city early yesterday morning of what was believed to be a most atrocious crime that had been committed about fifteen miles from this city, on the Broad-Street road. It was stated that Moses B. Henley, aged about thirty years, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Frances Drinard, aged about fifty-five years, had been murdered in cold blood by two THE WEATHER TESTERDAY was clear and negro tramps, who, after committing the

A representative of this paper, in company with a friend, drove out to Mr. Henley's place in order to ascertain the truth of the report, and to gather as far as possible the facts and details of the horrid crime. The drive was a long and weary one in the broiling sun, and nothing but such a startling piece of news would have compensated

HENLEY'S STORE. Mr. Henley lives fully sixteen miles from this city, and is a merchant. His house is situated on the left-hand side of the Broad-Street road, four miles from Short Pump, in the vicinity of Pierce's post-office, and not many miles from Manakin. His house is a framed building, standing in a grove of oak trees, and his store is immediately in front of his residence, the two forming an dwelling-house has been built for some

Mr. Henley's room is immediately in rear of his_store; indeed, his room opens into the store, and Mrs. Drinard's room is on the cast side of the house, ground floor, and opens into that of her son-in-law. Standing on the west side of the house and looking in at the porch-door, one can see through the entire dwelling-house.

HISTORY OF THE CRIME. With this much of a description of the building, the reader can now readily follow as the story of the crime is presented. On Thursday night at 12 o'clock a negro fiend entered Mr. Henley's house by meuns of the south window in Mrs. Drinard's room, and passing through Mr. Henley's chamber entered the store and endeavored to get into the money-drawer. Failing ber, probably with a view of getting the In the course of a short time Drewry's years old, who was employed by Henley, The earthworks are hold of the fellow's leg, remarking at the covered, ran into Mrs. Drinard's room and jumped out of the window by which he had

SHOT IN THE FACE. It was only the work of a moment for Mr. Henley to jump up and get his gun. Taking it in his hand he went to the south window with a view of closing the shutters in order to prevent being seen, for the window was only eight or ten feet from the ground. He intended, after closing it, to go up stairs and get a shot at the thief from an upper window. As he leaned out of the window to close the shutters the negro from below fired upon him, one ball entering the lower jaw near the corner of the mouth, passing through the under lip to the jawone, beyond which it has not been traced. Another ball entered at the corner of the right eye, passing into the cavity of the nose, beyond which point the doctor was authorities will have them attended to. unable up to last evening to trace its course. The balls were ordinary pistol-balls. The two wounds having no connection, and there being but one shot fired, makes it apparent that the pistol or whatever weapon was used was loaded with two Henley fell back upon the floor, bleeding profusely, and exclaimed, "I am dead." The negro, hearing the exclamation, replied: "If the damn fool hadn't poked his head out of the window I wouldn't bave shot him."

A MORTAL WOUND. Henley's negro boy now seized the gun and said he would protect his employer, who lay bleeding on the floor; but Mr. Henley, fearing lest he might miss his mark and the negro then come in and murder his whole family, made the boy put down the gun. The shot awoke Mrs. Drinard, and PERSONAL .- The City Council Committee she came to the doorway between the two a thief. The negro on the outside having walked around to the west side of the house heard the servant on the inside offer to protect Mr. Henley, and thinking he might bring him down as successa random shot into the lower panel of the door opening on the porch. The ball passed through the door, and, ranging upward, missed the boy for whom it was intended, but struck Mrs. Drinard as she stood between the rooms asking what was the matter, penetrating the pit of the stomach and lodging in the abdominal cavity. She fell mortally wounded.

AN AUDACIOUS THIEF. thief was ever guilty of must now be mentioned. The family were now all up. The referred to the Committee on Fire Departnegro on the outside, after consulting a ment. companion who appeared on the scene, came up to the window and demanded of Mrs. Henley her husband's money. After a conference with her husband she went to the store and got the money-drawer. The money would not satisfy the impudent villain, for he said he must have drawer and all. The drawer and its contents were then Moses Price (colored), drunk and disor- given him by Mrs. Henley. But this was not all. He now demanded four pairs of boots-fine boots he said he wanted; Nos. 8 and 9. The negro boy went up stairs over Mr. Henley's chamber and got the boots and threw them out to the man. They next called for four umbrellas, as they said it looked like rain, and these were procured and handed out. Fully half an hour elapsed while all this was going on, and there lay the wounded unable to help themselves, The thieves took the money-drawer to an old ice-house near by, and after pocketing elected. about $80 they departed, leaving the drawer ROAD .- The westward-bound mail train and and forty-five cents, which they overlooked. WHO ARE THE FIENDS. For several days past two suspicious-looking negroes have been seen lurking in the neighborhood of the store. Indeed, they have been in the store, and upon more than one occasion, and bought, whiskey, ginger-cakes, and other articles. Once. when the money-drawer was opened, one of the men was seen to lean over the counter and peer into the drawer. These men are the suspected parties. One is a bright mulatto about six feet high, twenty-six years of age, spare built, without whiskers or moustache, and his front teeth defective or broken. He is quick in speaking, and generally did the talking while in the store. Mr. Henley remembers his voice and manner of speaking, and is confident that he was the man who shot him and did the talking night before last. The other negro was a low, heavy-built man with side-whiskers, apparently about thirty years of age, and bad very little to say when in the store. They were seen Thursday about daylight near the house, and it is believed they would have committed the robbery on Wednesday night, but several persons were camped in the vicinity, and they were afraid to make the attempt. After the shooting on yesterday morning they were tracked some distance across the field. The men were unknown in the neighborhood, and were looked upon with suspicion.

MR. HENLEY'S STATEMENT.

The writer conversed for some time with Mr. Henley, who, although suffering a good deal, was cheerful, and seemed to be doing very well. He said he had to go into the store for his gun, and it was after returning with it that he was shot while endeavoring to close the shutters. He commends his servant for the course he wanted to pursue, but he was afraid to risk his shot. He as well as the boy were confident that the voice of the man was the same that they had heard in the store. He also stated

PERSONAL.

Mr. Henley has been living in Goochland since the 1st of May last. Before that time he resided in Powhatan, and had been merchandising at Fine-Creek mills in that county. During the war he was a member of the Henrico Troop, in the Twenty-fourth Virginia Cavalry regiment.

The citizens in the county are indignant at the outrage that has been perpetrated upon Mr. Henley and his family, and are resolved to arrest the suspected parties if possible. At Dover Mills, Manakin, and other places in the county the citizens were arming themselves and parties forming to scour the country.

CONDITION OF THE WOUNDED. very well, and no fears were apprehended as to his recovery. Mrs. Drinard was in a critical condition. It is true she was conscious, but inflammation of the peditoneum (the membrane that lines the abdominal cavity) had set in, and death was likely to ensue in the course of a few hours.

ENGINEER OF COMPANY A .- The Board of Control of the Fire Department have re- ported as greatly improved. commended to the Committee on Fire Department Messrs. Burwell Jones, J. O. Goode, and Oscar E. Phillips as competent persons for the position of engineer of Company A. The committee will select one man from these three, or if they cannot agree on one, will ask for new nominations from the Board.

To the Governor. Editors Dispatch: Governor Holliday has reatly endeared himself to the people of Richmond since his residence here. It is in his power still further to win the approbation of the community by having the Capitol-Square walks put in decent condition. All the rough and sharp gravel have worked to the top, and they are death to thinsoled shoes, and painful indeed to tenderfooted people. There are no other walks in Richmond in such bad plight. Considering that they can be rolled and put in order without the expenditure of a single cent, it is not too much to ask that the State

Stuart-Lodge Anniversary—The Pic-Nic of the Season.—Stuart Lodge, No. 141, I. O. O. F., celebrated its seventh anniversary vesterday at Mason's farm by one of the most enjoyable pic-nics even given in or near the city. Boyle's stage line was busy until nearly noon conveying the members | creams. and their families and invited guests to the pleasure-ground. Warner Allen's full stringband furnished excellent music, and dancing, croquet, and other rational sports, were the order of the day. About 20'clock P. M. an old-fashioned Virginia dinner was spread, to which ample justice was done by all present.

After dinner brief addresses were made by Past Grand Master Courtney, Grand Treasurer Ferguson, Past Grand Attkisson, and others. The efficient committee of ar and four children, and, at present, his mother-in-law, Mrs. Drinard, who has of tended to send it to Richmond to buy goods Charles M. Amos, and William Foster. They were assisted by Messrs. Isaac Kahn, Henry Gary, Motier Adams, and others, and by a number of ladies. To them, and especially to Mr. David Jarvis, the manager of the farm, all who attended are indebted for one of the happiest days ever spent in this vicinity.

Store Robbed .- Early yesterday morning the dry-goods store of Mrs. W. L. Moody. at the corner of Eleventh and Hull streets. was entered and robbed. The entrance was effected from the rear. Mrs. Moody could not compute her loss, but it is supposed to be inconsiderable. The object of the robbers was evidently money, and failing to find this, they went off discomfited. They had a wagon and horse in the yard, and left a quantity of goods, which they did not Late last evening Mr. Henley was doing care to take away.
